

Hollywood pool and palm tree
1973, crayon

The giant amoeba of the pool
convolute and flash
in the garden's jewel.

Still beneath the fan of the palm
the sunflower bows
over an extended arm.

Brown skin warm in the sun
a fly devotedly
leaves you alone.

Publication history

First published in this version 2007

© Robert J.C. Young 2007

To cite this poem:

MLA Style: Robert J.C. Young, 'Hollywood pool and palm tree'. 2007. [access date]

<<http://robertjcyoung.com/Hollywood.pdf>>